Commander Huntington, of the "Alert," ... witnesses the Upheaval of Black Masses of Mud and Ashes in Mid-ocean.

[SPECIAL DESPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

WASHINGTON Oct. 6—Commander Huntington, of the United States steamer Alert in a report to the navy department just received says that while on a surveying cruise in the Pacific, south of Fort Bragg and Bowin Islands, on approaching the island of San Augustine his attention was called to the strange appearance of the water Apparently ten miles distant a volume of vapor was rising as though some vessel was blowing off steam This was followed by the appearance of breakers, and while some of the officers were discussing the probable cause some thinking it was the blowing and breathing of a school of whales, the question was definitely settled by the upheaval of an immense black mass As the ship approached the submarine volcano the black masses thrown up were distinguished as mud and ashes The upheaval was accompanied by dull reports like that of some mine mining and by an odor of sulphur Several days were spent in making a reconnoissance Commander Huntington says he did not think it prudent to approach the volcano in the Alert for a small boat was cast off within a hundred yards of it A reef of black rock proved to be an extensive formation which in its five to twenty nine fathoms The water was full of ashes and mud and some of these and one specimen of the bottom were brought on board The volcano bears north 45 degrees west 2 3/4 miles from the landing place on the southwest end of the island At night flames were noticed issuing from the vol cano Their port of Commander Huntington has been referred to Lieut Bakraft in charge of the hydrographic section of the bureau of navigation and a change will be made on the charts

COMPARATIVE WORTHINESS

In the New York World of the 24th September is published a letter from Jeremiah S. Black, a democratic oracle, to Augustus Schell of New York, on General Garfield. Judge Black says: "Intellectually Gen. Garfield is first among the politicians of his party; not the sharpest or strongest, but the most gifted and best cultivated. His private life is stainless, and in everything unconnected with politics his behavior is regulated by principles of the soundest morality; but in public affairs he does not act on his convictions. When he passes into the domain of politics his conscience loses its grip, and for his party he is willing to do any wrong which will promote their interests or play any card, how false soever, which will win them power. This perversion of his moral and mental integrity is the condition upon which he holds his high place in the affections of the party he betrays to. Again, Black says: "If at any time in the last fifteen years Gen. Garfield had given way to his own sense of right he would have converted himself into a democrat and been expelled from the communion of the anti-constitutional party." And in this statement Black moralizes thus: "This moral prostitution to bad political purposes is far from being uncommon. Men naturally good have yielded to it in all times and in all countries where there is a party unprincipled enough to demand it and strong enough to reward it."

It will be seen that Judge Black declares Gen. Garfield to be an entirely honorable man—"in everything unconnected with politics." In another part of his letter he speaks of the Credit Mobilier charges, and says that Gen. Garfield was as "guileless as the child unborn of any dishonest meaning about the whole business." "And this," he says, "I believe, not because he told me so, but because it is probable in itself and is corroborated by many circumstances." This is not the first time that Black has made a similar statement, and it is conceded that he knows as much as any one about the inside of the Credit Mobilier business.

His charge against Gen. Garfield is, therefore, that he sacrifices his political conscience to the bad work of a bad party, and that, had he not done so, he would now be a democrat. This, as it rests on the assumption that the democratic party has a conscience which governs it as an infallible guide, that it has a high perception of the moral forces of politics and the moral duties of statesmanship from which it never deviates, and that it stands on the highest summit of political righteousness, whence by special commission it pronounces judgment upon the sins of its opponents, is amusing, but needs no labored answer. For the one party of our history which for a generation or more has had no political conscience, is the democratic party. This has been its character from the time it made its alliance with the propagandists of that greatest of crimes, human slavery. It has not yet recovered from the moral degradation of this alliance,—a degradation that so affected its patriotism that, as a party, it threw every possible obstacle in the way of maintenance of national authority against rebellion, and even brought Judge Black himself to give his opinion, as attorney general of the United States, that there was no constitutional power to maintain the constitution.

Judge Black, then, censures Gen. Garfield only because he adheres to a party which is said to be unworthy because it lacks conscience, moral integrity, sense of right and perception of patriotic duty. When it is remembered that the republican party owes its origin solely to the protest of the national conscience against the democratic party for the moral degradation to which its political conduct had sunk it, and that the republican party has maintained its strength and ascendency to this day chiefly because the democratic party is considered unfit to be trusted and men have a dread of it and its methods, this arraignment rather loses its force. Numerous as have been the shortcomings of the republican party, it has been trusted by the country for twenty years, chiefly because the democratic party was less to be trusted, or not to be trusted at all. When Black thinks that his party is the depositary of conscience in politics and the organ and oracle of political righteousness, the effect is not great; and so as he acquits General Garfield personally, the other part of his letter—the attempted arraignment of the republican party—may be considered as answered by the voice of the country which has steadily preferred the republican to the democratic party, because it considered it the more fit and worthy. As the independent Boston Herald says: "If there is to be no forgiveness or forgetfulness of sins in this world for the democratic party, its case is hopeless. The record of its blunders that are worse than crimes, and crimes that are worse than blunders, would keep it down forever."

HANCOCK AND THE SOUTH.

Gen. Grant has been making certain statements about Gen. Hancock and the results of his administration in Louisiana which may well disturb the serene satisfaction of the "superb soldier" with himself. What Gen. Grant says about Gen. Hancock's great anxiety to be the democratic candidate for the presidency ever since 1864, and of the disposition of his mind under this impulse to side with everything "democratic and southern," is well borne out by his history; and the statement of the unhappy consequences of Hancock's reversal of Sheridan's policy in the south, resulting in the restoration of rebel domination through the murder of unionists and defiance of the reconstruction laws, is part of an unimpeachable record of which Grant, Sheridan and many others have personal knowledge from their own actual observation. The proofs of these things have been laid before the country through numerous official reports. Under Gen. Hancock's southern administration the system of outrage and violence was first introduced which has now at length completely nullified the constitutional amendments, deprived all opponents of the confederate democracy of their political rights, and established an iron despotism, based on intimidation, suppression of free speech, denial of free suffrage, and false counting of votes. The murderous policy under which these results have been achieved had its origin in Gen. Hancock's southern administration. There are none so dull as not to know that colored citizens in the southern states, and white citizens too who do not go with the democratic party, are practically deprived of the political power to which they are legally and constitutionally entitled. And the beginning of this was in the course pursued by Gen. Hancock in Louisiana, when, as an agent of Andrew Johnson, he set aside the reconstruction laws, and not only permitted but encouraged the ex-rebels to begin the work of proscription and outrage which has made the "solid south" of to-day. Gen. Hancock talks of answering Gen. Grant, but he will not do it.

In the hope of creating a state which will be able to withstand the power of Chili, consolidation of Peru and Bolivia is proposed. The terms of the proposed union are substantially those which have been sanctioned by the practical experience of many federal republics. There are a common president, a common supreme judicial court and a common congress of legislation. To the federal government is given the sole power to make war, establish treaties, legislate upon commerce, coin money, etc. The powers not expressly conferred by the new constitution are reserved to the two component states. Peru and Bolivia are yet to vote on this project. It may be distasteful to either or both. About fifty-five years have passed since the south and southeast provinces of Peru were separated from that state to form a new republic under the name of Bolivia. Some twelve years later the states were reunited in a confederation, but a revolution brought the union to a close, and Peru and Bolivia returned to their previous forms of government. Judging from the past, there is now little prospect of a harmonious and efficient union between them. But Peru, reduced to extremity by Chili, will probably be glad to do anything to get help. Still, it is possible, and even probable, that Chili would be able to overcome Peru and Bolivia combined.

Here are some interesting figures which have a bearing on politics: During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1880, the north paid per capita into the public treasury $19 17, while the south paid per capita $4 89. During the same year congress appropriated for internal improvements in the north per capita, 50 cents, against 85 cents per capita for the south. During the year the northern states contributed to the national government a gross revenue of $218,252,430, and received as appropriations for public buildings and rivers and harbors, $5,836 561. The south during the same period paid into the treasury, $52,559,227, and received from the treasury in appropriations for rivers and harbors and public buildings, $5 189 364. The north received in the shape of internal improvements 2.6 per cent. of revenues which it contributed, while the south received back in internal improvements 10 per cent. This comes from the persistency of the brigadiers in congress and the control which the democratic party has given them of all the important committees through which the course of legislation is shaped and directed.

Several persons who read the dispatches of yesterday—rather carelessly we suppose—have been making inquiries about the reported "flop" of the New York Times to the support of Gen. Hancock. Had they read more attentively they would have seen that the dispatch was under a Chicago date line, and that the Chicago Times was meant. Formerly the Chicago Times was a "straight" democratic paper. Latterly it has been an independent paper, but with tendencies on the whole democratic. That it should have come round finally to the active support of Gen. Hancock is not surprising. It supported Mr. Tilden with great vigor in 1876.

The Northern Pacific Company have adopted a plan for a bridge across the Missouri river at Bismarck. It will be the greatest bridge yet erected over any stream of the Mississippi river system except that at St. Louis. Its height will be seventy feet, and it will be built in five great sections. To confine the river to a channel 1200 feet wide, a dyke is to be built on the west side. The east bank is a high bluff. It is the intention to have the dyke completed before the river freezes this fall, and the bridge proper will be built early next season.

John W. Forney, converted democrat, wrote in 1868 of the parade and ceremonies of decoration day in Washington: "Gen. Garfield, the orator of the day, was in fine health and spirits. Gen. Hancock, handsome but haughty, was not in the procession to the graves at all, evidently hating the affair because it was not intended to honor the rebels. Hancock is evidently beginning to discover that he cannot be the democratic candidate for president without turning his back on all those who stood by him."

On Saturday next we shall issue THE DAILY OREGONIAN on a large double sheet, containing the great speech delivered recently by Senator Conkling in the city of New York. This speech will occupy about ten columns, and will be published without abbreviation. It is pronounced by far the ablest speech yet made in this campaign. As it will not again be published in Oregon, the present opportunity should be taken to secure copies. Orders should be sent in before Saturday morning.

Upwards of 2000 names of democratic "colonists" have been turned into the republican central committee of Indiana. By far the largest number of new arrivals in the state hail from Kentucky, but many come from other parts of the solid south. The importation of voters has been carried on according to a fixed system; and the utmost vigilance will be required to defeat their plans.

No political demonstration in the United States every equalled that which took place in Philadelphia on the night of the 25th September. It was a tremendous effort of republican enthusiasm. The Times, though it supports Hancock, speaks of this parade as an immense affair. It says an actual count showed 32,264 men in line.

On the eastern division of the Northern Pacific track laying is progressing at the rate of two miles a day. If material is not delayed, the Yellowstone will be reached by the 15th December, as the grading is now nearly finished.

During the year ended June 30 last, the amount of public land surveyed in Oregon was 1,062,221 acres; in Washington territory, 847,635 acres.

The people begin to feel very much like praising the legislature. It is doing so little. Herein is large part of the science of statesmanship.

THE NORTHWEST.

Southern Oregon.

Wool is selling for 24 cents in Roseburg. The fall clip has commenced to come in.

A small grist mill will shortly be put in operation by wind power opposite Marshfield.

The Ashland woolen mills filled large orders from Happy Camp, California, last week.

A mill adapted to sawing lumber for ship building will soon be built between North Bend and Marshfield.

Search for the perpetrators of the recent stage robbery has been abandoned. The exact amount lost was $900.

A corn-stalk ten feet high and an ear of corn taken from it containing 840 grains, is on exhibition in Jacksonville.

Elizabeth Puleski, one of the first white women who settled on the Coquille, died at her residence there on the 18th ult., aged 56 years. She had resided on the place where she died since '56.

Govan High, an enterprising Wagner creek farmer, last season seeded about an acre and a quarter with 125 pounds of Bruns wheat recently received from California, and realized 84 bushels from the experiment.

Josephine county has raised $6,000 for the Crescent City wagon road and Jackson has promised $5,000, but is short $900 of that amount. If the money is raised the road is to be in order for freighting next spring.

A bridge across a gulch south of Ashland instately broke down, losing an ox team and 10,000 pounds of flour through. A suit was brought against the county by the freighter and damages to the amount of $20 recovered.

The new schooner was launched from Dean & Co.'s shipyard Saturday. She will be ready for a cargo in two or three weeks, with good weather. She will rank foremost among the fine fleet of vessels that have been built at Marshfield.

There is a heavier white oak mast in Illinois valley, Josephine county, than has been known for several years, and hunters anticipate a rare sport in killing fat bear this fall. The acorns tempt the animals down from their mountain retreats in great numbers.

Jacksonville Times: Arthur Langell, one of Lake county's prominent stockraisers, reports matters looking up in that section and cattle buyers as being numerous. Several thousand head have been driven to California and Nevada of late. Fair prices being given. He estimates that he lost two-thirds of his cattle last season and Jesse D. Carr seven-eights of his. He has branded only 45 head of calves thus far, while he should have had several hundred. Immense quantities of hay have been put up in anticipation of next winter.

A brick fire occurred at Lakeview on the 29th, aggregating a loss of about $5000. The Lakeview brewery was completely destroyed; Barney Wilson's stable, standing on an adjoining lot, was also burned, and a number of dwellings were more or less injured. The proprietors of the State Line Herald, who had just fitted up an office at considerable expense, lost all their type, paper, forms and other material, saving from the flames but a single font of nonpareil type. The Herald will issue a small flyer, containing legal ads. and some news matter, and as soon as material may be shipped from below, the paper will be issued the same size as before. An order was dispatched at once, and a portion of the material will probably reach Lakeview by express in about two weeks.

Washington Territory.

The O. R. & N. Co. have refunded to the Dayton school district $106 57, the amount paid for freight on the desks for the new school house.

The military telegraph line was completed to the summit of the Coeur d'Alene mountains, and connection made with the eastern division, in a heavy storm, 48 miles on the 29th ult. It is extremely doubtful if the new line can be worked during the winter months.

Seattle Post: Every indication for the success of the Port Townsend iron works is promising. The proprietors, having purchased the Texada mine, will mix the ore, produce and thus make a better article. The company will be ready to commence smelting by the 1st of November. About 25 men are at present engaged in the works, while 35 more are busy filling contracts let by the company for coal. Already 60,000 bushels have been burned. The company anticipate the consumption of this quantity monthly.

Bitter Factional Fights between Georgia Democrats.

WASHINGTON, September 23.—Judge Lochrane of Georgia has just returned from that state, and says the pending contest between the Colquitt and Norwood factions as the most bitter that has ever been known in Georgia. He says there can be no reconciliation between the two factions. At recent meetings at Macon at which Colquitt and Norwood were announced for a joint discussion, the crowd hooted and yelled at the governor, preventing him from speaking more than fifteen minutes of the two hours allotted to him. Norwood was listened to with but very little interruption at the public meeting recently held at Columbus. Brown of Bartow was also howled down by the crowd. Lochrane further says the scandals of Colquitt's administration, the disappointment of Brown in the United States senate to succeed Gordon, form the issues in the campaign. He believes that the contest between the democratic factions will be continued after the pending election, and they will never again settle harmony. Lochrane thinks Colquitt will be elected by a small majority as he will get the larger proportion of the republican vote.

Stuffing Even a Primary.

NEW YORK, Oct. 1.—A Times-Charleston, S. C., special gives some details of a recent democratic primary election there. The ballot box-stuffing alarmed the bourbon leaders and they are beginning to ask one other, "Where is this thing going to stop?" In a word, one Alderman Dingle discovered a man voting from two to six tickets and called attention to it, whereupon one of the voters told the alderman that he owed his seat in the city council to just such voting, and as he had raised no objections to the method at that time, he ought to keep his mouth shut now. In ward-fourth it was discovered at the close of the election that the box contained 151 more votes than there were names registered.

IT SEEMS IMPOSSIBLE

That a remedy made of such common, simple plants as Hops, Buchu, Mandrake, Dandelion, &c., should make so many and such marvelous and wonderful cures as Hop Bitters do, but when old and young, rich and poor, Pastor and Doctor, Lawyer and Editor, all testify to having been cured by them, you must believe and try them yourself, and doubt no longer. See other column.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—Silver bars 118; money, 2@3; governments stronger; stocks closed weak; Western Union 97½; N. Y. Central 120½; Erie 19¾.

The absolute lifelessness in the local wheat market which has prevailed since the opening of the season still continues. There is no response here to the slight though marked improvement in English and continental markets; nor is it at all likely that a change for the better will be experienced for the next two months and, probably not this year. Ship owners are firm and advance rates in correspond with the advance of wheat in Liverpool. The cause of the advance in charters which are now beyond all reason, is according to the views of the best informed merchants here, the sequel to a strong monopoly formed early in the season at San Francisco. It is well understood that a combination of four of the leading grain firms of the Bay city some months ago chartered a large proportion of vessels to arrive at prices ranging from 85 to 110 shillings. So great is this combination [illegible] to fill their engagements [illegible] 57s 6d, the combination can well afford to pay $1 40 per cental and have a handsome margin left, while dealers who have to pay 77s 6d must lose at $1 40 per cental at least $2 per ton. The combination itself has chartered several vessels at present rates but taken with the low prices of charters the average is a still leaves them a profitable margin. It is stated that [illegible] of the combination will take a ship, say at 70 shillings. He will recharter to it at 72s 6d. It in turn will recharter to it at 75s, and in this way it is alleged, they have forced outsiders up to present figures.

The Valiant and the Gatherer, each able to carry 2500 tons of wheat are taking in ballast, will go to Puget Sound for coal and thence to San Francisco. Thus 5000 tons of dirt-ganged shipping is lost to Portland because merchants cannot pay the rates demanded. Some ship owners are willing to charter at 5 shillings less than San Francisco rates, but farmers are so dilatory in meeting the market dealers here would have no assurance of being able to secure a cargo after they had chartered a vessel.

Farm and dairy productsare without noticeable new features.

The accumulated evidence of nearly forty years show that the bitters is a certain remedy for malarial disease, as well as its surest preventive; that it eradicates dyspepsia, constipation, liver complaint and kidney weakness; counteracts a tendency to gout, rheumatism, urinary and uterine disorders; that it imparts nerve to the feeble, and cheers the mind while it invigorates the body.

For sale by all Druggists and dealers generally.

DR. PAUL M. BRENAN

The Most Successful Physician on the Pacific Coast.

IN THE TREATMENT OF ALL CHRONIC AND DIFFICULT DISEASES

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of disease of the generative organs or private diseases.

He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as SPERMATORRHEA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual diseases have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organization broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored.

Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder to our cure without fail.

Consultation free, and a list of printed questions sent to those living at a distance who cannot consult him personally. Enclose postage stamp for the

THE GENUINE

CELEBRATED

FOR THE CURE OF

Hepatitis, or Liver Complaint,

DYSPEPSIA AND SICK HEADACHE.

Symptoms of a Diseased Liver.

PAIN in the right side, under the edge of the ribs, increases on pressure; sometimes the pain is in the left side; the patient is rarely able to lie on the left side; sometimes the pain is felt under the shoulder blade, and it frequently extends to the top of the shoulder, and is sometimes mistaken for rheumatism in the arm. The stomach is affected with loss of appetite and sickness; the bowels in general are costive, sometimes alternative with lax; the head is troubled with pain, accompanied with a dull, heavy sensation in the back part. There is generally a considerable loss of memory, accompanied with a painful sensation of having left undone something which ought to have been done. A slight, dry cough is sometimes an attendant. The patient complains of weariness and debility; he is easily startled, his feet are cold or burning, and he complains of a prickly sensation of the skin; his spirits are low; and although he is satisfied that exercise would be beneficial to him, yet he can scarcely summon up fortitude enough to try it. In fact, he distrusts every remedy. Several of the above symptoms attend the disease, but cases have occurred where few of them existed, yet examination of the body, after death, has shown the LIVER to have been extensively deranged.

AGUE AND FEVER.

DR. C. MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS, IN CASES OF AGUE AND FEVER, when taken with Quinine, are productive of the most happy results. No better cathartic can be used, preparatory to, or after taking Quinine. We would advise all who are afflicted with this disease to give them a FAIR TRIAL.

For all bilious derangements, and as a simple purgative they are unequaled.

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS.

The genuine are never sugar coated.

Every box has a red wax seal on the lid, with the impression DR. MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS.

The genuine MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS bear the signatures of C. MCLANE and FLEMING BROS. on the wrappers.

Insist upon having the genuine DR. C. MCLANE'S LIVER PILLS, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, Pa., the market being full of imitations of the name McLane, spelled differently but same pronunciation.
